Seedtime and Harvest

> While the earth remaineth, seedtime and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night shall not cease.
>
> Genesis 8:22 (KJV)

REFLECTION

God spoke these words to Noah after the flood, as a promise for every generation that followed. Winter is part of that promise. The cold days are not a sign that God has forgotten us; they are a sign that He is keeping His word. Many of us remember winters on the farm or in town, when the ground lay hard and quiet. Yet every one of those winters gave way to spring. The seasons of our lives turn too. We have known planting and harvest, heat and cold, busy days and slow ones. Through every one of them, the same faithful God has been at work. As this winter begins, we can rest in the One who set the seasons in order and has never once failed to bring them round again.

PRAYER

Faithful Father, thank You for the seasons and for Your unchanging promises. Help me trust You in this winter season of the year and of my life. Amen.

© Printable Barn · printablebarn.com

Free sample page from printablebarn.com — get the full set there